ADMINISTRATION

Dear Students:

Fort LeBoeuf High School offers you the opportunity to develop the traits of character necessary to good citizenship. It is here that you give your first serious thoughts to preparation for life. You study to improve minds and bodies. You learn to cooperate and to get along well with other people. Social events, athletics, art, music, specialized courses and service activities, open doorways of educational opportunity to all who wish to learn.

Let me assure you that the faculty and educational facilities of Fort LeBoeuf High School are provided by the citizens of the community for one big purpose -- to help you become responsible, well educated men and women. Your high ideals, commendable spirit, scholastic attainments, and devotion to worthy causes, prompts me to say, "I am proud of you! Accept my congratulations for setting high goals in life."

C. W. Dingle

To the Class of 1957:

Your class is probably the smallest, at least in the foreseeable future, that will ever graduate from Fort LeBoeuf High School. We all know that quality is not dependent upon size. Your class has been among the pioneers in our school, and has helped establish traditions, ideals, and a school spirit that will be treasured by succeeding classes.

You have encountered many problems during your school years, and you will continue to encounter trying situations in the future. Your schools have attempted to help you develop the skills, attitudes, and ideals that will assist you in meeting these problems intelligently.

I sincerely hope that your past twelve years have been profitable for you, and that you have been properly prepared to find your way successfully in our modern democratic society.

Good luck and happy living to all of you.

DEDICATION

MRS. ELIZABETH DAVIS

Off to work.

We gratefully dedicate this issue of the Sentinel to Mrs. Elizabeth Davis.

To you our friend and advisor, we wish ever increasing pleasure and happiness in life.

You are a constant source of help to students in all departments and a very valuable guide to those enrolled in the Home Economics curriculum.

We are grateful for your utmost co-operation in our school activities, clubs and sports. It is with a deep sense of appreciation that we honor you with this dedication.
